women work and the care economy explores the critical intersection between gender labor and caregiving the book is divided into four sections encompassing a diverse range of topics the theoretical section highlights the challenges of integrating intersectionality into feminist economics emphasizing the sustainability of life as a transformative framework and linking critical feminist economics with common economic practices methodologies include qualitative reviews and multiscale analyses of care systems across europe latin america and the global south the second section focuses on gender inequality and the care economy it examines the impact of unpaid domestic work on labor market participation in oecd countries the feminization of caregiving for people with disabilities in mexico and spatial disparities in access to care services using mixed methods like time use surveys and spatial analyses the book underscores systemic inequities the third section examines work and entrepreneurship exploring feminist identity's influence on entrepreneurial intentions the pandemic's effects on the unpaid labor division in the U.S. and caregiving's impact on academic careers in Uruguay data collection methods include surveys econometric models and gender disaggregated analysis the final section addresses public policies and proposals it analyzes shared caregiving responsibilities in Mexico's labor market the economic effects of caregiving on female-headed households during COVID-19 and the role of agency in reducing gender disparities globally by highlighting the importance of care work the central role of women in the economy and the need for inclusive public policies the book seeks to sensitize the wider public to persistent inequalities and how these can be challenged and transformed

Why do so many new products fail in the market? What causes schedule and cost overruns? How can products be developed right the first time? Unlike books focused solely on speeding development or cutting costs, Blind Spots reveals why product development projects miss their targets, reveals the often overlooked traps that lead to costly failures and overruns, explains why they happen and offers practical, actionable ways to avoid them altogether. By the end of this book, readers will understand why unjustified optimism causes many new products to fail and miss their targets, how incentives, assumptions, and human behavior drive unrealistic forecasts, proven steps to identify and prevent failure before it occurs, and be able to develop products that truly meet customer needs, hit market launch dates, budget goals, and performance targets. Stay ahead of projects instead of reacting to crises. Drawing on decades of cross-industry experience, Paul Streit shares insights, strategies, and tools you can apply immediately.
