transnational belonging and female agency in the arts interrogates the politics of space expressed via womxn s artistic practices which prioritise solidarity and collaboration across borders imagining attentive geographies of difference it considers belonging as a manifestation of processes of becoming that traverse borders and generate new spaces and forms of difference in doing so the book aims to catalyse mutual social relations founded upon responsibility and response ability to each other the transnational framework activates concerns around belonging at a time of intensified divisions partitioning global narratives unequal trajectories and increasing violence against bodies of the most vulnerable largely founded on eurocentric paradigms of political economic and cultural superiority the contributors engage in a conversation signalling transversal thinking and artmaking in order to articulate and activate in between spaces this is to welcome co affective models of belonging that question versatile embodiments of subjectivity as both agentic and as interrelational organised around the triangulation of modes of belonging spatial affective and collective overarched by a transnational lens that acknowledges non hierarchical local and socially relevant genealogies against universalising politics of globalisation these essays consider afresh ways in which female agency disrupts borders and activates concerns around different forms of belonging citizenship and transnationalisms cover image credit keren anavy garden of living images 2018 general installation view detail courtesy of the artist and wave hill photographer stefan hagen

when charlotte began writing the heroes and heroines of the novels prepared for young ladies and gentlemen were ideally perfect the approach of the heroine was announced by the rustling of voluminous muslin whose quality was described as the whitest and finest when she came tripping in sandals long ringlets were seen falling over a drooping head and a swan neck and she was declared tender soft languishing and innocent the hero was the pink of kindness and graciousness and when after three volumes of courtship he won a reluctant bride he was told to be never cross or wayward with her the best novels of this species a lingering on of the sir charles grandison tradition were those written by mrs anne marsh caldwell even emily and anne brontë were careful to keep their heroines beautiful in wildfell hall and wuthering heights though to no such extreme charlotte told emily and anne that they were morally wrong in adopting the conventional heroine and said to them i will show you a heroine as plain and as small as myself who shall be as interesting as any of yours 1 1 charlotte brontë s letter quoted in w l cross the development of the english novel london macmillan co ltd 1899 rpt 1964 p 228

the power of images to represent the unseeable stunning visualizations of science from the microscopic to the incredibly vast we live among patterns of delicate beauty and exquisite chaos that our eyes can t detect we are surrounded by invisible particles and shifting fields of matter that permeate all of space our very cells are intricate molecular machines and the story of our origins stretches back through an unimaginable amount of time how can we see the richness of what lies beyond our sensory perception scientists have developed visualization tools that can make the invisible visible this bountifully illustrated book demonstrates the power of images to represent the unseeable offering stunning visualizations of science that range from the microscopic to the incredibly vast with more than 200 color images and an engaging text by leading science writer Jack Challoner. Science explains and illustrates the techniques by which scientists create visualizations of their discoveries. We see the first detection of a black hole as represented by an image from an X-ray telescope. Get a direct view of DNA through an electron microscope and much more. Visualizations are also used to make sense of an avalanche of data, concisely presenting information from the 20,000 or so human genes. For example, scientists represent complex theories in computer models which take on a curious beauty of their own. Scientists and artists collaborate to create art from science visualizations with intriguing results.
